

P univ
H

1871

1871

Chas
H. H.

Harvard University

3rd
Report

P
Univ
H

THIRD REPORT,

[FIRST DECENNIAL,]

—OF—

The Class of 1861

—OF—

HARVARD COLLEGE.

Jan. 1867—Sept. 1871.

PRINTED FOR THE USE OF THE CLASS.

MONTPELIER, VT.:
FREEMAN STEAM PRINTING HOUSE AND BINDERY.
1871.

348736
4. 4. 38.

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2008 with funding from Microsoft Corporation

Harvard College.

Class of 1861.

 LEONARD CASE ALDEN.

 PARDON ALMY, JR.

HENRY MARTYN ATKINSON. Date of marriage, Nov. 6, '64. Went to N. Y. City in Jan. '66. In May of that year was engaged as Ass't Adjuster for the Great Western Marine Insurance Co., and devoted his time principally to collating and preparing proofs of the Co.'s losses by Confederate cruisers. Feb. '67 became Adjuster for the Sun Insurance Co., which position he still holds. His residence was N. Y. City till May, '68; then Jersey City till Oct. '70; then Passaic, N. J.; where he now owns and occupies a home-stead. Has three children,—a son, born Feb. '66, a daughter, born Nov. 24, '67, and a second son, born Dec. 7, '70. Address, Care Sun Insurance Co., Wall st., N. Y. City.

CHARLES COTESWORTH BEAMAN, JR. Having been admitted to the N. Y. Bar, removed to N. Y. City, from Washington, and began practice as junior member of the firm "Jackson & Beaman," 16 Wall st. Afterwards effected a new partnership—"Beaman & Marden"—(H. U. '63)—173 Broadway. Style of firm at present, "Diefendorf, Beaman & Marden"; office 17 Warren st. Beaman has been employed as counsel in regard to the settlement of the Alabama Claims; and has recently published a volume entitled "The Alabama Claims, and their Settlement," (pp. 358,) which has excited considerable interest.

 Let the double asterisk ever distinguish those who died in the service of their country, in the War of the Rebellion.

JOHN BIGELOW. Leaving A. T. Stewart & Co., entered business with Collins, Atwater & Whitin, Dry Goods Commission Merchants, N. Y. City. Subsequently engaged in other business. Present address, 22 Old State House, Boston.

CHARLES LEE BIXBY. Married Miss Emma Linder, of Newton Corner, Mass., Oct. 21, '68. Is still with Fellows, Weeks & Co., 89 Broad st., Boston, as book-keeper: residence at Newton Corner. Has one child.

THOMAS KELLY BOLTON. Still practising law in Cleveland, Ohio. Present style of firm "Williamson & Bolton." He has two children.

ALLEN FOSTER BOONE. A member of the firm of Boone, Cannell & Co., dealers in small wares, 72 Summer st., Boston.

HENRY PICKERING BOWDITCH. After finishing the course in the Harvard Medical School, he went abroad to continue his studies. Spent several years in Germany, and the winter of '69-'70 in France. Has devoted himself almost wholly to the study of Physiology, under Prof. Ludwig, at Leipzig. Expects to return home in Sept. '71, and assume the duties of Ass't Prof. of Physiology in the Harvard Medical School, to which position he has recently been appointed.

* JEREMIAH WESLEY BOYDEN.

HERMAN FRANCIS BRASHEAR. Still practising his profession at 66 West 3rd st., Cincinnati, Ohio.

JOHN PATRICK BROWN. Admitted to Suffolk Co. Bar in '69. Address, 163 Border st., East Boston, Mass.

JOHN LINCOLN BULLARD. May 20, '66, daughter, "Sarah S." born. June 1, '66, his wife died. In the autumn of the same year he entered into business with — Deland, Broker, on Beaver st., N. Y. City. More recently he became a member of the firm of Osborne, Bullard & Co., Jobbers of Calcutta Goods, and American Hemp, at first at 178 and 180 Pearl st., but now at 119 Maiden Lane, N. Y.; (P. O. box 353.) He married Miss Charlotte Haskell of New Bedford, in '69. Residence in Brooklyn.

ELIHU CHAUNCEY. No change in business relations. Address, 109 Walnut st., Phila. Has enjoyed a trip to the Pacific coast with Hackett this summer.

JOHN DOGGETT COBB. After graduating from the Dane Law School he continued for several years with his father in the Probate office of Norfolk Co., Mass., conveyancing and title-hunting. Was admitted to the Mass. Bar, and commissioned J. P. In March '71, entered the Revenue Marine Division, in the office of the Sec'y of the Treas'y of the U. S. Is at present preparing brief biographies of the officers of the Revenue Cutter Service. Address, Revenue Marine Division, Secretary's office, T. Department, Washington, D. C.

CHARLES ALONZO COOPER. His long continued and painful illness of over four years prevented his entering upon the practice of his chosen profession; and hence, as his health improved, he entered as junior partner the firm of Chas. Cooper & Son, Soap Manufacturers, 71 River st., Cambridgeport, Mass., in Jan. '67. Dec. 24, '68, married Miss Mary E. Cutter, daughter of Peter Cutter of Cambridge. Daughter, "Eva Agnes," born Dec. 2, '69. Wife died Dec. 5, '69. He is still engaged in business as above, with health restored.

STEVENS GEORGE COWDREY. In the summer of '67 studied medicine with Dr. H. I. Bowditch of Boston. Oct. '67, graduated at Berkshire Medical School. Oct. '67 to

Nov. '68, was studying and practising his profession in N. Y. City. In Nov. '68, entered the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army, as Ass't Surgeon: and was stationed at Carlisle Barracks, Penn., till Feb. '70, when he was ordered to the Department of Missouri. Married Miss Mary G. Hall of Baltimore, Nov. 17, '70. His address is now, and probably will be for a year or two, Fort Gibson, C. Nation, Ind. Ter. He expects to be ordered east in '74. Permanent address, care of Surgeon Genl. U. S. Army, Washington, D. C.

*EDWARD AUGUSTUS CROWNINSHIELD. Died in Milton, Mass., July 3, '67.

Edward Augustus Crowninshield, whose character in every varied relation of life was without blemish or reproach, and who never allowed himself to rest while a single duty remained unperformed, was, while at the post where his business called him, stricken with contagious disease, and, on July 3, 1867, was summoned to leave a life full of brilliant prospect,—a life in which there had been nothing to regret,—and gathered to the Christian's Home. D. D. G.

Crowninshield's brief life was marked throughout by deep conscientiousness. In College this showed itself in his faithful application to his studies without the stimulus of ambitious desire to grasp college honors, and in his sedulous avoidance of all that was low and morally impure; after graduation it appeared in his devotion, apart from his business cares, to interests deeply affecting the welfare of others. Undoubtedly excessive modesty, a habit of underrating his own abilities, prevented him from undertaking all the Christian work that it was in his heart to do. It is known that he felt drawn towards the ministry of the Gospel, but distrust of his qualifications for that department of service of his fellow men deterred him from yielding to his inclination. Christian work, however, is not limited to pulpit and pastoral labor; and Crowninshield, as a business man both devout and practically religious, has left behind him a record of usefulness brighter than he himself ever imagined.

He was a valued member of Brattle Square Church; and his fidelity, amiability, and unaffected goodness, led to his selection as Superintendent of its Sunday School, which office he held at the time of his death. The pastor of the Church,—Rev. S. K. Lothrop, D.D.,—was in Europe at that time; but on his return a memorial service was held in the School in honor of its lamented Superintendent.

Our Classmate's body rests beside that of his brother, Frank; and upon his tomb-stone is this most appropriate inscription,—“Blessed are the pure in heart.”

Evidence of the strong hold which by the solid worth of his character, as well as by the loveliness of his disposition, he had gained upon the hearts of those who knew him, has been recently afforded in a tribute of respect to his memory paid four years after his decease, in a sermon preached by Rev. Henry F. Jenks, in the Church by whose members he was so well known, and so highly esteemed.

J. E. W.

LEWIS STACKPOLE DABNEY. April '67, married Miss Clara Bigelow, daughter of Chief Justice Bigelow, of Boston. May 5, '68, son, "Frederick" born. Address, 30 Court st., Boston.

 HENRY JONAS DOOLITTLE.

CHARLES TILTON DUNCKLEE. Has been admitted to the N. Y. Bar; but has never practised in that city, having, since he went there, been engaged in mercantile pursuits, first with John G. Butler & Co., Importers of Wines, Liquors, &c., at 19 Beaver st. On the dissolution of that firm, Nov. 2, '68, the new one of Butler & Duncklee was formed; which continues the business at the same place. March 5, '68, a daughter, "Alice Josephine," born, who died Jan. 27, '70. June 29, '70, son, "Charles Brown," born. Aug. 1, '70, Duncklee's father died at Brighton, Mass.

 STEPHEN GOODHUE EMERSON.

SAMUEL FRANKLIN EMMONS. May 10, '67, sailed for San Francisco with the U. S. Expedition—(sometimes called "King & Gardner's")—for the Geological Survey of the country on the 40th parallel, as a volunteer. He became afterwards regularly attached to that corps, with which he still remains.

HENRY WELD FARRAR. April 29, '67, married Miss Laura M. Wilson of Chicago, Ill. Returned east and engaged in business in Boston with a lead firm—Stearns & Co. (?) Resided at Cambridge. Afterwards formed the partnership, "Pickering & Farrar," Brokers, 48 State st., Boston.

Has since returned to Chicago; and has become one of the proprietors of the "Chicago Daily Evening Journal."

JOSEPH EMERY FISKE. June 1, '69, married Miss Ellen Maria Ware, of Grantville, Mass. Finished the Theological course at Andover; but has since devoted himself to the care of the homestead in Grantville. Jan. 14, '71, daughter, "Ellen Maria," born. Jan. 17, '71, his wife died. He is Post Commander, G. A. R. Address, Grantville, Mass.

MINOT GARDNER GAGE. March 14, '66, ordained pastor of Unitarian Church in Nashua, N. H. April, '67, made a trip to Havana for his health. In March '69, married Miss Elena Boutwell, of Nashua. Jan. 1, '70, assumed the pastorate of a Unitarian Church in Gloucester, Mass.

WENDELL PHILLIPS GARRISON. May 4, '67, son, "Lloyd McKim," born. Sept. 28, '69, second son, "Philip McKim," born. Still in the "Nation" office, in the capacity of Publisher. Has assisted in forming a New England Society, in Orange, N. J., of which he is Secretary. Address, 3 Park Place, or P. O. box 6732, N. Y. City.

* WILLIAM YATES GHOLSON, JR.

JAMES FORTESCUE GIFFEN. Is married, and his address is supposed to be still "Giffen & Co., 26 Magazine st., New Orleans, La."

DANIEL DUDLEY GILBERT. Feb. 20, '67, son, "Daniel Stebbins," born. Dec. 26, '69, daughter, "Amelia Gertrude," born; who died Aug. 17, '70. For the last three or four years his residence and office has been on Boston Ave., Upham's Corner, Dorchester District, Boston.

EZRA PALMER GOULD. Immediately upon graduating from Newton Theological Seminary in '68, he accepted one of the professorships in that institution made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Hackett; and thus is "occupied, perhaps for life, in the work of New Testament literature and interpretation." Sept. 1, '68, married Miss Jenny M. Stone, of Cambridge. Aug. 21, '69, son, "Herbert Shelton," born. Address, Newton Centre, Mass.

JAMES REEVE GOULD. After resigning his commission in the army, his business led him to visit and stop for a time in nearly every one of the States and Territories lying west of the Mississippi. In '69 he was located in Virginia City, Nevada, in charge of the Union Mill Mining Co., Comstock Lode. In '70 he returned east, and became Treasurer of the N. J. Southern R. R. Co.; office 95 Liberty st., N. Y. In March '71, he was voyaging in the Pacific for health. In June of the present year he had returned to Cal., still an invalid. May be addressed in care of W. H. L. Barnes, Esq., Atty. at Law, San Francisco.

FRANK WARREN HACKETT. Has continued to practise law at 7 Court sq., Boston. Spent the winter of '70-'71 in Minneapolis, Min., for the benefit of his health. Delivered a lecture while there on "Hoaxes." Has been recreating in California, Utah, and Kentucky, this summer with Chauncey. Intends to settle in St. Paul in Sept.

ALBERT HALE. Aug. 18, '69, married Miss Katharine Davenport Wood, of Newburyport, Mass. For three or four years has been teaching in the English High School, Boston: which is his present address. Resides in Maple Place, Jamaica Plain. Daughter, "Katharine Wood," born Aug. 22, '70.

NORWOOD PENROSE HALLOWELL. During an emergency at Swarthmore College, Delaware Co., Penn., he filled for a few weeks the chair of History in that institution. Jan. 27, '68, married Miss Sarah Wharton Haydock, of New York City. June 1, '69, removed from N. Y. to 144 Congress st., Boston, where he now transacts in his own name a Wool Brokerage and Commission business. Counts it among his "honors," that, on April 14, '70, he paraded by invitation, in Boston, with colored citizens, in commemoration of the death of Abraham Lincoln, and in jubilation of the 15th amendment. Resides in West Medford, Mass.

JOSEPH BRADFORD HARDON. Still at 76 Franklin st., Boston, book-keeping. Style of firm changed to "Burr, Taft & Co." June 28, '70, "A. M.," H. U.

ALPHEUS HOLMES HARDY. In the winter of '69-'70, visited Sicily, Egypt, (for the third time,) the Suez Canal, and Syria. In Syria took a very pleasurable trip in the saddle to the ruins of Baalbec, and to Damascus, Jerusalem, and the coast country north as far as Beirut. On his return he spent a month in the seaports and most interesting inland cities of Spain; and just missed seeing Brashear and Wigglesworth, in Marseilles and Paris. Business address still 181 State st., Boston. Residence 35 Brimmer st. Oct. 2, '66, daughter, "Susan White," born. July 22, '69, daughter, "Eleanor," born.

WILLIAM AUGUSTUS HOLBROOK. May 22, '67, married Miss Elizabeth P. Bolles, second daughter of Enoch Bolles, Jr., of Newark, N. J. Spent the succeeding summer in Europe. Became rector of St. John's, in Salem, N. J., Oct. '67. Resigned that position in Oct. '70, and in the following month became associate minister in charge of chapels in St. Paul's, Rahway, N. J., which is his present address. Daughter, "Emice Thompson," born Oct. 12, '68.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES, JR. Is still practising law, being now in partnership with his brother; office 7 Pemberton sq., Boston.

Has taught Constitutional Law in Harvard College for the last two years, and expects to give next year a course of University Lectures on Jurisprudence.

JOHN PRENTISS HOPKINSON. Sept. '68, opened a school for boys, on Charles st., Boston, of which he still has charge. Son born July 27, '69. Daughter, "Fanny Newell," born March 25, '71. Address, Cambridge.

CHARLES EDWARD INCHES. Practising medicine. Office and residence Charles st., Boston.

ALFRED PERRY JOHNSON. Dec. '67, married Miss Terrie Shiveley, of Marion, Grant County, Ind. In '69, his wife's health having failed, left Kansas and returned to Indiana.

In May '70, became pastor of a Cong'l Church in Woodstock, Ill., which is his present address. Daughter, "Blanche," born Feb. 19, '71.

THOMAS HENRY KNOWLES. Treasurer of the New Bedford Tanning Co. Still with Thos. Knowles & Co., 24 Union st., New Bedford, Mass.

* CHARLES DUNCAN LAMB. Has been studying architecture and painting for some years past. Died Sept. 2, '71. [See appendix.]

 THOMAS JOSEPH LEAVITT.

DAVID FRANCIS LINCOLN. In Nov. '66 he opened an office in Boston, at 575 Tremont st.; and continued to practise medicine there until a few months ago, when he sailed for Europe, intending to resume his studies in Vienna, and prosecute them there at least until Christmas. He may be addressed in care of William Lincoln, 15 and 17 Central st., Boston. He acted as Asst. Editor of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal for four months in the early part of '69.

JOSEPH HETHERINGTON McDANIELS. In '69, accepted the professorship of the Greek Language and Literature, in Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., (of which J. K. Stone was then President;) which position he still retains.

JAMES RUNDLET MAY. Still in Portsmouth, N. H., practising his profession.

GEORGE HART MUMFORD. Was admitted to the Bar in Rochester, N. Y. April '66, went to California as Director and General Agent of the Western Union Telegraph Co. Jan. '67, was elected President of the California State Telegraph Co. The lines under his charge extended to Salt Lake, and embraced all on the Pacific Coast, amounting to about 7000 miles of wire. Dec. 10, '67, married Miss Suidie Dana, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at Grace Church, San Francisco. Sept. 30, '68, daughter, "Annie Isabelle," born.

May 9, '70, son, "George Dana," born. April '71, moved from San Francisco to New York, having accepted a still higher position under the Western Union Telegraph Co. Address, 145 Broadway.

SCOLLAY PARKER. In Feb. '66, then holding a commission as Act. Passed Asst. Surg., U. S. N., Parker was ordered to the Gulf, where he remained till Oct. '67, experiencing, in Aug. '67, a slight touch of the yellow fever. In Nov., '67, he joined the Panama R. R. service. His father, Supt. of that R. R., was murdered by a crazed employee in '68. Parker remained in the Panama R. R. service till June '69: then, after six months divided between California and the East, he practised his profession for a while in Los Angeles Co., in southern California. In Sept. '70, he established himself in Portland, Oregon: which is his present address:—(P. O. box 301.)

WILLIAM HENRY PETTEE. Returned from Europe in the summer of '68. Spent Oct. of that year in Penn., prospecting. Nov. '68—June '69, taught Physics and Exploitation of Mines, under Prof. Whitney, in the School of Mining and Practical Geology, of Harvard University. In the summer of '69, with Prof. Whitney and others, visited the iron and copper regions of Lake Superior: thence they went to Denver, Col., and organized as an exploring expedition, Pettee acting as Astronomical Observer. Among other exploits they determined the altitude of a peak higher than any up to that time measured in the Rocky Mountains. They named it "Mt. Harvard." Height 14270 ft. "The neighboring peak,—say 200 ft. lower,—was dubbed 'Mt. Yale.'"

During his absence from Cambridge he received the formal appointment of "Instructor in Mining," in the department in which he had been teaching. In June '70, he obtained leave of absence from the University till Jan. 1, '71, and engaged upon the Geological Survey of the State of Cal., of which Prof. J. D. Whitney was Director.

He was appointed Asst. Prof. of Mining, H. U., in May '71; and has recently returned to Massachusetts to resume his work in the School of Mining and Geology for the next academic year.

 SAMUEL DUNN PHILLIPS.

HENRY PICKERING. April 15, '67, entered the firm of Horace McMurtrie & Co., Manufacturers of Engines, and General Machinery, 83 and 85 North st., Boston. They have since removed to 80 Milk st., his present address. His father died Oct. '68, and his mother in March '69. In the spring of '69 he visited England on business. Residence on Brimmer st., Boston.

GEORGE HERMAN POWERS. Married Miss Helen Wiley Hunt, of San Francisco, Jan. 14, '67. He continues to devote his attention to his specialty, Ophthalmic Surgery:—present office, 19 Post st., San Francisco.

* BENJAMIN RAND. April 28, '69, died in McLean Asylum for the Insane, Somerville, Mass.

Thus at last passed from earth, without the knowledge, it is believed, of any of his Classmates, at the time, one of our number whose short life had been clouded with much sorrow.

In his early childhood afflicted by severe sickness; bereft of the fostering care of his father,—(a man highly distinguished in his profession,)—at the age of thirteen; interrupted in his college course by protracted illness; losing his beloved mother soon after that course was finished; and at length brought under the control of that melancholy in whose gloom his life terminated; he may well be regarded as one of our greatest sufferers. Although he graduated from the Dane Law School in '65, yet he did not enter upon the practice of his profession, but for some years led a life of leisure, in Boston.

At length a diseased condition of mind developed itself so fully, in strong religious delusions, fear of personal harm, and an almost uncontrollable desire to commit suicide, that he was taken to the McLean Asylum, July 1, '68; where he remained, all efforts to effect his permanent restoration to sanity proving unavailing, till April 28, '69; when, within a few hours of the thirtieth anniversary of his birth, a natural death, the result of the continuance of his mental state, and physical exhaustion, put an end to his sad earthly experience.

On account of prolonged absences from college exercises, occasioned by sickness during the latter part of his course, he failed to receive his "A.B." with the rest of us; yet his name has ever been kept upon our Class Records as that of one of our own proper number; and, as we see the star which must henceforth be prefixed to that name, we shall not fail to remember with regret the mournful fate of our much afflicted Classmate. BENJAMIN RAND.

By vote of the Class on Commencement Day, '69, a letter of condolence was written by the Class Secretary to the surviving relatives of our deceased Classmate.

J. E. W.

JAMES HORTON RICE. Commissioned 2nd Lieut. 44th Regt. Infantry, U. S. Army, April '67. May 3, '67, was wounded in the shoulder and arm by so-called "Regulators," while he was attempting an arrest near Nicholasville, Ky. On leave of absence on account of wounds, from June to Oct. '67; then rejoined his Regt. at Reynolds Barracks, Washington, D. C.; where he remained till April 1, '69. Brevetted 1st Lieut., and Capt., U. S. A., March 2, '66.

For some months from April 1, '69, was on duty at Petersburg, and Danville, Va., as Military Commissioner, under the reconstruction acts; and, in March '70, was Judge Advocate of a General Court Martial held in Richmond, Va. From May to Oct. '70, he was stationed at Forts Sully and Rice, in Dacotah. In Oct. he appeared before the Retiring Board, at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, on account of his wounds; and from Nov. '70 to the present date he has been at home on Surgeon's certificate of disability. Present rank, 2nd Lieut. 17th U. S. Inf'y: Bt. Capt. U. S. Army. Address, Allston, Mass.

FRANK THORNTON RICHARDSON. Supposed to be still with Page, Richardson & Co., State st., Boston.

JOHN RITCHIE. Oct. 11, '65, his father died. May 24, '66, he married Miss Caroline Stuart Poole, of Milton, Mass.: who died Jan. '67. In the summer of '67, in an open "Whitehall" boat, 18 ft. long, he made, with some companions, an interesting trip from Providence, R. I., through Narragansett Bay, and Long Island Sound, to the mouth of the Connecticut River, and up that river to White River Junction: thence, transporting the boat by rail fifty miles to Franklin, N. H., he reached the Merrimac, sailed and rowed on it to its mouth, and thence coasted around Cape Ann to Boston;—in all 570 miles.

He enjoyed a similar excursion in '68. After spending two weeks cruising on Lake Memphremagog, he entered the Connecticut River at Brunswick, Vt., reaching it through the Clyde and the Nulhegan,—the former flowing into the Lake, and the latter into the Connecticut, with only a "two mile carry" between their sources. From Brunswick he followed the river to the Sound, and thence sailed to Providence, R. I.:—in all over 700 miles.

He spent the whole of '69 in Europe, the most of the time in Berlin and Vienna. In the summer visited various parts of Germany, Switzerland, France, Holland, England, and Ireland. Was present at the International Race on the Thames, Aug. 27. Ascended Mt. Blanc to "Les Grands Mulets," 10,000 ft., where a severe snow storm stopped all further progress. Returned home in Feb. '70. Address, 51 Chester Park, Boston.

* THOMAS RODMAN ROBESON.

* CHARLES CHRISTIE SALTER. Jan. '69, relinquished the charge of the Unitarian Church in Arlington, (formerly called West Cambridge,) giving up with it the ministry as a profession. May '69, entered Dane Law School. In the spring of '70, on account of impaired health, he planned a trip to Europe with his brother, but died on the steamer "Java" on the first night out, April 7, '70.

Salter's death was most unlooked for. He left Cambridge about the first of April, and went to Portsmouth to get ready to go to Europe in company with his brother Thomas, of Brooklyn. Called to New York some days sooner than he had expected, he remained there one night, sailing the next day by steamer for Queenstown. At the hotel in New York, he was awakened from his sleep by a violent beating of the heart, which alarmed his brother Albert, who had accompanied him from Portsmouth, and slept in the same room with him. The next morning, however, he appeared much better. On board the steamer he complained of not feeling well, and talked for some time with the surgeon. Afterwards he read a volume of Macaulay. At the approach of night, he said he felt chilly, and yielding to the advice of his brother, who wrapped him in an extra blanket, he retired early to his berth. His brother soon after went to sleep, and, awaking about three o'clock, got up "to see how Charlie was getting along." He was already dead. Apparently he had passed away without a struggle. He was buried at sea; as was the fate of an elder brother who, ten years before, was buried from the ship of which he had been the commanding officer.

I have known Salter intimately since boyhood, from our school days in Portsmouth, (our native town,) till the last year of his life, at Cambridge, where he was studying law, and where I met him every day at the same table. While I have always respected him for his talents, his acute and bold reasoning, and his easy superiority in controversy, of which he was ever fond; it is only for the year just passed that I have been attracted by a growth and development of kind sympathetic qualities, that have endeared him to his associates. He was not well known to all the Class. He left College with a few warmly attached friends, and many acquaintances who knew him only as a keen aggressive thinker, an extensive reader, and a scholar of high rank.

With Salter's intellectual ability, no one who ever conversed with him could fail to be impressed. He was a rapid and indefatigable reader, and his memory was stored with the choicest information. Dr. Peabody, who knew him most intimately from boyhood, has said that "he never knew a man of Salter's years who had read and knew so much." Besides his theological education, he had attended medical lectures, and had from other sources enriched his mind with the principles of that profession. Laying aside his own chosen profession only after a severe struggle, he applied himself to the study of the law. He brought to it enthusiastic love of learning, and from his habit of continuous reading and careful digestion, his mind was well prepared to analyze and comprehend legal doctrines. In less than a year he was as well grounded as most men are after a full term of three years' study. Especially fond of logic and of metaphysics, his application of principles of law to the facts of a case was made with singular dexterity and clearness.

The most marked characteristic of our Classmate was the ripening of a boyish taste for intellectual combat into power of conversation at once entertaining and instructive. His conversation was brilliant and sparkling. It was full of spirit, and glowed with an animation that stimulated his hearers to do their best. Choice anecdotes, that only a cultivated scholar could have treasured up, felicitous quotations, or classical allusions, or truths in philosophy or science, would fall from his lips in rapid succession, without the slightest thought of any display of learning. He would take up a topic in a bold and dashing strain, and, with a laugh, excite everybody's interest in it who heard him. As such, he was the life of the company; and those who met with him around the social board this last winter will never forget how much of wit, of sprightly, generous criticism, of charming raillery, and of solid acquirement, was parted with when that slight form was committed to the deep.

Beneath all was a kind and affectionate nature, that assured you the speaker was happy because he interested you, and was himself interested in what he said. Though depressed by physical weakness, for his mind "o'er informed the tenement of clay"—there was nothing querulous or gloomy in his conduct towards others. He would, on the contrary, preserve a cheerful front on many an occasion when I know he must have been suffering from bodily ailment. It was this trait that I would especially point out to those who only knew him slightly, and that only as they occasionally saw him in College. A few years out of College, works changes more or less in us all. Salter's contact with the world modified his views, and afforded him, not so much a broader and more catholic spirit, as a heartier sympathy than that the mere student enjoys with the world as it is. Had he lived to meet us at successive Commencements,

EDWARD WILLIAM SANBORN. Married Miss Maria M. Parsons, of Northfield, Mass., April 3, '66; who died Feb. 21, '68, leaving a daughter. Has continued to reside in Boston, and vicinity, practising law;—office at 9 State st.

WESLEY CALEB SAWYER. Went abroad in the summer of '66. Travelled in England, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany, Denmark, Russia, Austria, and Switzerland; studied in the Universities of Berlin, Heidelberg, and Paris; and was graduated "A. M.," and "Dr. Phil.," at Göttingen. Returned home in Sept. '70, in poor health. Has since made a trip to Minnesota, and returned east. May be addressed through friends at Harvard, Mass.

HIRAM SMITH SHURTLEFF. For some years has been Ass't Clerk of the Superior Court, (Criminal Session,) for the County of Suffolk. Address 2 Beacon st., Boston.

HERBERT SLEEPER. Was compelled by ill health to give up the practice of law, in '67; then made a trip to Europe, stopping for some time at the Azores; returned home July '68. Oct. '69—Oct. '70, was Agent for the New England Wood Pulp Co., a manufacturing establishment at Bellows Falls, Vt. Since Feb. '71 he has been in the leather business at 48 High st., Boston, a partner in the firm of Howe, Living & Co. Residence. 305 Dudley st., Boston Highlands.

*WILLIAM FRANKLIN SNOW.

Died Jan. 11, '71;—and by his decease we have lost one of the noblest of our band. Living, as he did throughout the whole course, away from the College buildings, being of studious habits, indifferent to athletic sports, not fond of general society, and somewhat reluctant to form new acquaintanceships, his worth opened to us but slowly. But when there was so much that was deserving of praise, something could not fail to attract attention; and the honors conferred upon him during the last two years of our Academic life, in which he was chosen one of the Editors of the Harvard Magazine, and Class Day Odist, and was elected to deliver the Latin address at the inauguration of Pres't Felton, indicate that, though he did not possess all the qualities which go to make up the "popular man" in College, his Classmates were not entirely ignorant of his virtues.

It was my good fortune, without having enjoyed any peculiar intimacy with him before, after graduation to be thrown into such relations with him, as to justify me in speaking as one who knew him reader, and his ...

Dr. Peabody, who knew him more ... that "he never knew a man of Salter's years who ... knew so much." Besides his theological education, he had attended medical lectures, and had from other sources enriched his mind with the principles of that profession. Laying aside his own chosen profession only after a severe struggle, he applied himself to the study of the law. He brought to it enthusiastic love of learning, and from his habit of continuous reading and careful digestion, his mind was well prepared to analyze and comprehend legal doctrines. In less than a year he was as well grounded as most men are after a full term of three years' study. Especially fond of logic and of metaphysics, his application of principles of law to the facts of a case was made with singular dexterity and clearness.

The most marked characteristic of our Classmate was the ripening of a boyish taste for intellectual combat into power of conversation at once entertaining and instructive. His conversation was brilliant and sparkling. It was full of spirit, and glowed with an animation that stimulated his hearers to do their best. Choice anecdotes, that only a cultivated scholar could have treasured up, felicitous quotations, or classical allusions, or truths in philosophy or science, would fall from his lips in rapid succession, without the slightest thought of any display of learning. He would take up a topic in a bold and dashing strain, and, with a laugh, excite everybody's interest in it who heard him. As such, he was the life of the company; and those who met with him around the social board this last winter will never forget how much of wit, of sprightly, generous criticism, of charming raillery, and of solid acquirement, was parted with when that slight form was committed to the deep.

Beneath all was a kind and affectionate nature, that assured you the speaker was happy because he interested you, and was himself interested in what he said. Though depressed by physical weakness, for his mind "o'er informed the tenement of clay"—there was nothing querulous or gloomy in his conduct towards others. He would, on the contrary, preserve a cheerful front on many an occasion when I know he must have been suffering from bodily ailment. It was this trait that I would especially point out to those who only knew him slightly, and that only as they occasionally saw him in College. A few years out of College, works changes more or less in us all. Salter's contact with the world modified his views, and afforded him, not so much a broader and more catholic spirit, as a heartier sympathy than that the mere student enjoys with the world as it is. Had he lived to meet us at successive Commencements,

I doubt if any grasp of the hand would have been heartier, or word of welcome more sincere, than that of CHARLES CHRISTIE SALTER.

F. W. H.

Boston, May, 1870.

JOSEPH HERBERT SENTER. Remained in Divinity Hall, Cambridge, as Resident Graduate, for a year. June 20, '67, was ordained pastor of the First Cong'l Society, (Unitarian,) in North Chelsea, Mass. April '69, resigned his pastorate. Sept. '69, was appointed Assistant in the Cataloguing Department of H. U. Library, and may now be found at Gore Hall, Cambridge.

* CARLETON ATWOOD SHURTLEFF.

HIRAM SMITH SHURTLEFF. For some years has been Ass't Clerk of the Superior Court, (Criminal Session,) for the County of Suffolk. Address 2 Beacon st., Boston.

HERBERT SLEEPER. Was compelled by ill health to give up the practice of law, in '67: then made a trip to Europe, stopping for some time at the Azores: returned home July '68. Oct. '69—Oct. '70, was Agent for the New England Wood Pulp Co., a manufacturing establishment at Bellows Falls, Vt. Since Feb. '71 he has been in the leather business at 48 High st., Boston, a partner in the firm of Howe, Living & Co. Residence, 305 Dudley st., Boston Highlands.

* WILLIAM FRANKLIN SNOW.

Died Jan. 11, '71;—and by his decease we have lost one of the noblest of our band. Living, as he did throughout the whole course, away from the College buildings, being of studious habits, indifferent to athletic sports, not fond of general society, and somewhat reluctant to form new acquaintanceships, his worth opened to us but slowly. But when there was so much that was deserving of praise, something could not fail to attract attention; and the honors conferred upon him during the last two years of our Academic life, in which he was chosen one of the Editors of the Harvard Magazine, and Class Day Odist, and was elected to deliver the Latin address at the inauguration of Pres't Felton, indicate that, though he did not possess all the qualities which go to make up the "popular man" in College, his Classmates were not entirely ignorant of his virtues.

It was my good fortune, without having enjoyed any peculiar intimacy with him before, after graduation to be thrown into such relations with him, as to justify me in speaking as one who knew him well; for we roomed together for a year at Andover, while pursuing the same studies, and engaged in the same practical work. And, speaking from this acquaintance, I venture to say that one will very rarely be found so pure in word and thought, so free from selfishness, so thoroughly consecrated to the welfare of others, so enthusiastic, and at the same time so constant, in his devotion to his chosen field of labor, as was WM. F. SNOW.

He fitted for College intending to enter the legal profession, but a change in his religious sentiments, which resulted in his joining the First Cong'l Church in Somerville, in July '57, resulted also in a change in his plans for life. He then decided to enter the ministry, and at once began those Biblical studies which were made by him a speciality for the remainder of his days.

I find it written in his own hand in the Class Book;—"Since being in College, my reading, aside from that directly concerned with the studies of the course, has been almost entirely theological, especially in the direction of Scriptural interpretation." While in the Seminary he continued to show a preference for this line of investigation; and his almost unexampled success in exciting and maintaining interest in the study of the Bible among his congregations both in Grass Valley, and in Lawrence, proves that his own delight in this pursuit continued unabated to the end of his life.

He spared no pains in furnishing himself with the means of thorough research, and ever endeavored to keep his mind open to the reception of new truth. It is to be regretted that the conclusions reached in this long continued, patient, and wisely directed application of his powers to this particular field, were not left by him in readiness to be made widely useful through the press.

He had clearly defined opinions, and held them with a firm grasp: without however asserting them with the arrogance of a dogmatist. The broad and charitable character of his nature was seen in his efforts, made at the risk of incurring suspicions of a want of soundness in the faith, to induce the Young Men's Christian Association of Lawrence to pursue a more generous policy in reference to terms of membership than they were inclined to adopt; and the attendance at his funeral of "all the Protestant clergy, of all Denominations, of Lawrence, Andover, Methuen, and North Andover," testified clearly to the breadth of his sympathies; in that it indicated the general feeling that in his death not one branch of the Church Universal, but all branches, had suffered bereavement.

By his special request no address was made on the occasion of his funeral. It will be, therefore, but to heed his own desire, if I here confine eulogistic remarks to what has been already said; but many a mind instructed by him in the way of holy-living, many a soul inspired by his words and example to begin the Christian's course, is to-day a living monument, proclaiming the value to his fellow-men of his short earthly career.

Let me briefly recapitulate some of the principal events in his life, not mentioned in former Reports. His father, (for a time Captain of various merchant vessels, afterwards in business in Honolulu,) and a younger sister, preceded our Classmate by several years in their entrance into the other life. While Snow's pastorate in Grass Valley was evidently highly prospered during his stay there, its real success was still more apparent after he left; others reaping the visible harvest of seed which he had sown.

On his return to Andover, he condensed the work of two years into one; manifesting a forgetfulness of physical laws, and of the limits of his powers of endurance which was habitual with him, and was almost his only fault.

His daughter, "Elizabeth Eliot," was born April 22, '67.

A brother minister, Rev. W. E. Park, writes as follows of his last days:

"On Thursday, the twenty-ninth of December last, Mr. Snow complained of feeling unwell; physicians were promptly summoned, and his case was pronounced to be typhoid fever, which progressed with great rapidity. Symptoms of pneumonia appeared, and on Sunday last his life was despaired of. At times during his illness the mind of our brother was overclouded, but in his lucid moments he made every preparation for death, and expressed himself as equally ready to leave this world or to remain, as his Creator should appoint. On the last Sabbath of his life he repeated the twenty-third Psalm, and during his last days he was repeatedly heard uttering verses of Scripture, and addressing short prayers to the Almighty. All the efforts of the physician and the incessant care of friends were of no avail, and he left us forever on the morning of Wednesday, the eleventh, between nine and ten o'clock.

His end was hastened by overwork and anxiety for many months past, acting upon a constitution naturally sensitive and delicate. He leaves a wife, and a child of four years, to mourn his loss. Our brother has left unwritten, works for which he collected materials, and treasures of study and thought leave the world with him."

J. E. W.

ALBERT STETSON. In '66 he bought a house in Normal, Ill., which town is now his residence, and P. O. address. Nov. 12, '67, daughter, "Lilian M.," born. In '68, in addition to his duties as instructor, assumed the editorship of "The Schoolmaster," a weekly paper, largely devoted to the interests of the Illinois Normal University.

JAMES KENT STONE. He retained his Professorship of Latin in Kenyon College from '63 to '67. In '66, second daughter, "Ethel," born. Early in '67 he was elected Peabody Professor of Mathematics and Civil Engineering in Kenyon. Accepted, resigning his former position, and at the "Commencement" of the same year was chosen President, vice Charles Short, LL. D., resigned. Filled this office one year, during which he had a long controversy with Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, which began with a sermon entitled "Moderation and Toleration in Theology," which he had published while holding his professorship. In the summer of '68 he accepted the Presidency of Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y. A third daughter was born during that summer. His wife died in Feb. '69.

In the winter and spring of '68-'69 he began to study earnestly the claims of the Roman Catholic Church, thus giving heed to the Pope's letter "to all Protestants and other non-Catholics." Aug. '69, he resigned the Presidency of Hobart College: and retired to Madison, N. J., for quiet study and reflection. Dec. 8, '69, the day of the opening of the Ecumenical Council of the Vatican, he made his submission to the Catholic Church. Since that date he has written and published a book entitled "The Invitation Heeded," giving his reasons for a return to Catholic Unity: of which several editions have been sold. In the summer of '70 he offered himself to Father Hecker, the Superior of the Paulists, and was accepted. He is at present a novice; but is looking forward to ordination to the Catholic Priesthood.

His second daughter, Ethel, died Dec. '70; the two remaining daughters are receiving their education at Mount St. Mary's Academy, Manchester, N. H., under the charge of the Sisters of Mercy.

His address is St. Paul's Church, 59th st., and 9th Ave., N. Y. City.

RICHARD STONE, JR. Is still practising law at 7 Court sq., Boston; having formed a partnership with R. M. Morse, Jr., and Chas. P. Greenough. Dec. 30, '68, married Miss Fanny Boott Newell, daughter of Rev. William Newell, D. D., of Cambridge, Mass. July 8, '70, his wife died.

FLAVEL COOLIDGE STRATTON. He went to England from Pennsylvania, and was with Belding, Keith & Co., Bankers, 90 Lombard st., London, two years. In the spring of '69 was in a banking house on State st., Boston; but in the summer went west; where, it is supposed, he still remains.

SIDNEY WARREN THAXTER. Still in the Flour Trade, Bangor, Maine.

LESLIE WAGGENER. March '67, reported to be a Professor in a College in Tennessee.

JOSEPH HOWE WALES. Still with Thomas B. Wales & Co., Boston.

JAMES PUTNAM WALKER. Continued in the Timber Trade in New York City, 1st Ave., Cor. 39th st., till June 1, '71. Style of firm changed in June '68 to Watrous, Walker & Co. April 24, '67, married Miss Sarah C. Bush, of New London, Conn. May 25, '68, daughter, "Alice Putnam," born. June 1, '71, entered into partnership with his father, in Bangor, Maine, which is his present address.

FRANKLIN WELD. Address still remains 182 State st., Boston.

STEPHEN WILLIAMS WHITNEY. Remained in Vicksburg till early in '67. Spent most of that year in Washington, occupied with a Gov't contract. Since June '68 has been in business in N. Y. City, with R. M. Davis, Esq., of New Orleans, under the style of "Stephen W. Whitney & Co., Commission Merchants," first at 70 Beaver st., and more recently at 15 William st., which is his present address.

EDWARD WIGGLESWORTH, JR. Remained five years in Europe, studying Diseases of the Skin. Returned Sept. '70, and opened an office at 24 Charles st., Boston: intending to devote his attention to Dermatology as a specialty. In May '71 was appointed Lecturer on Syphilis at the Harvard Medical School: and is one of the Orators for the year '71 before the Annual Meeting of the Mass. Medical Society.

GEORGE FRANKLIN WORKS. Not heard from. Address supposed to be Fitchburg, Mass.

JAMES EDWARD WRIGHT. Relinquished his pastorate in Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. '69. Returned to Boston, and thence to Montpelier, Vt., his native place. There, in Sept. '69, he assumed the charge of the First Independent Religious Society—(called popularly "The Unitarian Church")—for the vacation of its pastor, Rev. Charles A. Allen—(H. U. '58). While in Europe Mr. Allen resigned his charge, and Wright was invited to become the settled pastor of the Society. He accepted, Nov. 14, '70: and yet remains in Montpelier.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS

—OF—

The Class of 1861.

JOHN WARE ADAMS. Not heard from.

ARTHUR WELLAND BLAKE. Of the firm of Blake Brothers & Co., 52 Wall st., N. Y.

* GEORGE BURROUGHS. Died, Jan. 22, '70. The following obituary notice is taken from the columns of the Boston Journal :

SUDDEN DEATH. We learn with regret of the sudden death of Major George Burroughs, Engineer of the 6th Light House District. Major Burroughs left the city on an inspection tour about six days ago. On Friday while on his return he was taken ill with congestion of the brain, and at 8 o'clock on Saturday night, after the vessel had reached the harbor, he died. His body has been embalmed and awaits the orders of his friends. Major Burroughs has been living in this city for some time, and his death will be regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.—(Charleston, S. C., Courier, Jan. 24.)

In the above paragraph from a Charleston paper just received here, we have the mournful intelligence of the loss of this valuable and accomplished officer—a native of this city, the son of the Rev. Dr. Henry Burroughs, the esteemed Rector of Christ Church. And it is here indeed, in the home of his youth and early manhood, that a large circle of relatives and friends remain to mourn his loss—with his grieving parents and desolate young wife with her two infant children, one of them never to be blessed with its father's smile—too often the lot of a soldier's child.

The early promise of high talent was attested by his graduation at West Point in 1862, among the most distinguished scholars, being third in his class. Promoted in the Corps of Engineers and assigned to duty in the war, he at once attained, as far as a junior officer could do, the distinction worthy of his scholastic rank, and he received in succession, for his gallant services at Chickamauga, Nashville and other fields, the brevets of Captain and Major in the army. His pub-lie worth and usefulness are best summed up in the following record of his military services, which we take from the published register of the graduates of the United States Military Academy:

"Cadet at the U. S. Military Academy from July 1, 1858, to June 17, 1862, when he was graduated and promoted in the army to Second Lieutenant, Corps of Engineers. Served during the rebellion of the seceding States, 1862-66, as Assistant Engineer of Brig. Gen. G. W. Morgan's Division (Army of the Ohio) July 30 to Oct. 4, 1862, being engaged in defence of Cumberland Gap, East Tennessee, July 30,—Sept. 17, 1862, and as Acting Aide de Camp to the Commanding General on the retreat through Eastern Kentucky to the Ohio river Sept. 17 to Oct. 4, 1862; at Louisville, Ky., preparing drawings of the defences of Cumberland Gap Oct. 4 to Dec. 11, 1862, and constructing defences of Louisville and Nashville Railroad Nov. 8 to Dec. 11, 1862; as Assistant Engineer, Department of the Cumberland, Dec. 12, 1862, to Nov. 19, 1864, being engaged in the construction of the defences of Nashville, Dec. 15, 1862, to Nov. 19, 1864, (except on sick leave of absence March 15 to May 15, 1864.) from which he was occasionally detached for duty at Gallatin, Fort Donelson, Fort Henry, Clarksville and Murfreesboro for Maj. Gen. Rosecrans' Tennessee campaign from Tallahoma to Chattanooga, July 20,—Oct. 11, 1863, participating in the battle of Chickamauga, Ga., Sept. 19, 20, 1863, and for duty at Chattanooga, Tenn., Bridgeport, Ala., and Resacca and Kingston, Ga.; in closing accounts at Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 19, 1864, to June 28, 1865, but served during the investment of Nashville, and was engaged in the battle of Nashville, Dec. 15, 16, 1864; as Assistant at Engineer Agency, Cincinnati, Ohio, June 28 to Sept. 21, 1865, and Engineer in charge, Sept. 21, 1865, to March 12, 1866; at Nashville in disposing of Engineer property and closing outstanding engineer business, Sept. 21, 1865, to May 27, 1867, except while on leave of absence, Oct. 15, 1866, to Dec. 4, 1866; as Assistant Engineer in the construction of the defences of Boston Harbor, Mass., May 27, 1867."

Assigned to duty in Boston in 1867, as above stated, he continued here as an Assistant Engineer in the construction of the fortifications in this harbor, and afterwards as an Assistant in the survey, &c., of Provincetown Harbor, until the latter work was completed in May of last year; when as one of the senior captains of his corps, he received his first independent command, in charge of the Light House District of our Southern Atlantic Coast—where he has been continuously occupied ever since. And with that earnest devotion to his duties, which made him brave every exposure, and for which he was often almost reproved by his senior officer here, it is scarcely to be doubted, from what we can learn of his illness, that such devotion and exposure, in the often arduous duties of that special charge, has now cost him his life; as surely and as truly given to his country as if offered up on the battle field.

It is rare indeed that we are called to mourn for one of such high endowments, joined with so many personal kindly traits, whose candid, frank and joyous nature and most marked independence of thought and character were such as to endear him to all his official associates of every grade, as well as to the numerous personal friends of this home of his boyhood; and in yielding up one so fondly, so deservedly cherished, we can only hope for his sorrowing family—for that venerable grandsire, who has long since passed the usual span of human life, but who lives to mourn this youth; for those bereaved parents, and for that sadly-stricken mother, with her innocent babes—that our Great Father may early bless them with His best and choicest gift, the elasticity of spirit to rebound from sorrow—to feel that it is His will; that it is in His Providence for the best, though inscrutable to us. B.

JASON WALKER CHENAULT. Cobb has learned that a “Col. Chenault” of John Morgan’s command, was killed, July 4, ’63, at Tebb’s Bend, on Green River, Ky.: but it is not certain that this man was our former Classmate.

OGDEX CODMAN. Not heard from.

JAMES FREEMAN CURTIS. Supposed to be living in Boston.

BEN MAJOR DAVENPORT. Supposed to be practising law in Nebraska City, Neb., as he was three years ago. Sept. 29, ’68, married, in the “Gothic Chapel” in Mammoth Cave, Miss Ellen Campbell, of Hopkinsville, Ky.

ARTHUR DEHON.

*HORATIO EUSTIS.

JOHN LYMAN FENTON.

WILLIAM HATHAWAY FORBES. Still with J. M. Forbes & Co., 36 City Exchange, Boston. Made a trip to California in the summer of 1871.

*CHARLES GREENOUGH.

*FRANK HASTINGS HAMILTON, JR. He wrote only a small part of the “Treatise on Military Surgery,” erroneously ascribed wholly to him in our last Report. The mistake arose from the similarity between his own and his father’s name. The treatise was chiefly the work of his father; to whom also belongs the title, “Prof. of Military Surgery,” &c.

Hamilton studied medicine in Phila., where he received his “M. D.,” and soon after,—in March ’63,—he was appointed A. A. Surg. U. S. A. As early as ’66 he went to California, and was employed as book-keeper in the wholesale stationery and paper warehouse of his brother-in-law, John P. Hoge, in San Francisco. His wife, and their infant son, went out to California in May '66.

As Hamilton left College,—(Union).—to enter the army, on the breaking out of the war, he did not receive his "A. B." in course. It was conferred upon him as an honorary degree however, in July '69.

On the morning of Nov. 5, '69, at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, in San Francisco, he most unexpectedly put an end to his own life. No cause, except temporary insanity, is assigned by his friends for the act. There was no stain upon his character, to make him shrink from life; and nothing in his appearance or actions, which indicated to his associates premeditation of such a deed. "He was noble, generous, honest, and brave." [F. H. H.] His body is deposited in the family burial ground, at Tarrytown, N. Y.

OLIVER CLEVELAND HOUGHTON. In Boston till '69, when he went west, spent some months in Chicago, and then engaged in teaching in the vicinity of St. Paul, Min. In the spring of '71 he married Miss Lilian Braine, and is now employed in the Engineer Corps of a new R. R. in Wis. Address, Amherst, Portage Co., Wis.

EDWARD ADAMS JEWETT. Has been for some years Asst. Collector Int. Rev. in Burlington, Vt.; which is his present address. Sept. 21, '70, married Mrs. Davis, of Burlington.

FRANK KIMBALL. Not heard from.

FRANK WILLIAM LAWRENCE. Not heard from.

HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. A member of the firm of A. Meisel & Co., Lithographers, Cor. Franklin and Federal sts., Boston.

EDWARD GREELY LORING. Supposed to be still practising medicine in Boston.

EDWARD WILLIAM McCABE. Son of Edmund Hudson, and Elizabeth Tilghman (Farish) McCabe. Nov. '62—Sept. '64 in the law office of Judge Krum of St. Louis. Sept. '64—Sept. '65, in that of his cousin, Mr. — Farish. Dec. '65, with his brother, F. X. McCabe, opened an office in St. Louis for the practice of law.

JOHN McMAHON. Supposed to be still practising his profession at 169 Broadway, N. Y. City.

HENRY MATHES. Since graduating with the Class of '62, he has made various excursions to the White Mountains, the Bay of Fundy, and other places, mostly on the coast. In July '67 was studying medicine with Dr. Coleman, of Portsmouth, N. H.

CHRISTOPHER GUSTAVUS MEMMINGER. Not heard from.

FRANK WILLIAM PAUL. Not heard from.

ROBERT SINGLETON PEABODY. After graduation from the Dane Law School, he settled in Rutland, Vt.; where he practised his profession several years. Nov. 7, '66, married Miss Margaret A. Goddard, of Zanesville, Ohio. In '70 he gave up the practice of law, in order to devote himself to the settlement of the estate of his uncle,—the late George Peabody, of London. He is one of the two active executors of his uncle's will; and expects to be engaged for some years in this position. He is probably now in England, whither he expected to go last spring: but may be addressed through friends in Zanesville, Ohio.

THOMAS CLARKSON RUSSELL. Not heard from.

WILLIAM WILBERFORCE RUSSELL. Supposed to be still practising dentistry at 129 Tremont st., Boston.

DE FOREST SAFFORD. Is understood to be settled as a minister of the Baptist denomination.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SIMMONS, JR. In '67, a real estate broker, 96 Broadway, N. Y. City. Supposed to be now in business in Boston.

CHARLES STORROW. Business address Boston. (?)

*JOHN DAVIS SWEET.

The son of a Unitarian clergyman, was born in Kingston, Mass., Oct. 16, '38. Graduated from the Lyman School in East Boston, with the valedictory, in '54. Fitted for College in the Middleboro' Academy, and the Cambridge High School. Ill health led him to leave College at the end of the Freshman year, and make a trip to Europe. Returning, he gave up his plan of entering the ministry, and engaged in business in Cambridge. He married Miss Elizabeth W. Martin, of Bristol, R. I., Dec. 19, '61. As the result of a marked change in his religious faith and feeling, dating back to his school days at Middleboro', he connected himself with the Baptist Church in Cambridge; and his activity and earnestness there led to solicitations from his friends that he would become a minister. At length he saw it to be his duty; and was ordained as pastor of the Baptist Church in Billerica, Mass., in Oct. '63. His success in enhancing the material and spiritual prosperity of that Church is reported as very remarkable. That pleasant connection was broken by his accepting an invitation to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church in Somerville, Mass., where he was installed May 4, '68. His earnest labor there was greatly prospered; a new house of worship became a necessity, the old one being too small; and, as preliminary to obtaining this, he undertook to raise the money to liquidate a debt of $2,500, with which the Society was encumbered. Laboring for this object with intense zeal, in the heat of mid-summer, he was struck down by disease, and, after four days of severe suffering, died, Aug. —, '69.

As an expression of regard for his memory the Young Men's Christian Association of Somerville inaugurated a Memorial Course of Lectures, with the intention of devoting the proceeds to the erection of a monument over his grave.

The most marked feature in his character was his complete consecration to his work. Constantly dedicating himself anew to the service of the Master, devoting one eighth of his salary to religious uses; consecrating to Christian benevolence the whole of the proceeds of the lectures upon Pompeii and Herculaneum, and other subjects, which he delivered ninety-three times in the last two years of his life; insuring his life for the ultimate benefit of the Baptist Missionary Union;—he seemed to manifest at every step the unreservedness of his self surrender. And all was given cheerfully.

Among the last words he ever penned were these:—"Who would not wear out in such a cause?—I am so happy!—I have collected the larger part of the debt!"

He passed to his rest through suffering, yet his language was ever that of perfect peace, or assured triumph. "You know," he said to his wife as the end drew near, "I have always had a shrinking from death; but if this is death, I would die ten thousand thousand deaths." Sending, on Sunday,—his last day in the body,—a farewell message to his loved flock, and receiving from them the joyful word that the debt was all paid, he quietly "fell asleep."

The foregoing facts have been obtained from a published Memorial Sermon delivered in the First Baptist Church, Somerville, by Rev. G. F. Warren.

GEORGE HARVEY TAYLOR. Married Miss Jessie P. Emerson of Nashua, N. H., July 8, '68. They have two children, "Charles Edward," born June 18, '69, and "Harvey Emerson," born Jan. 17, '71. Taylor relinquished the practice of law some time ago; and has been teaching in Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., for several years. In '70, his father,—for a long period Principal of that Academy,—died.

* JAMES BALDWIN THOMAS.

NATHANIEL DANA TURNER. Not heard from.

* JAMES MCBRIDE VANDERPOEL.

CHARLES MORRIS WALTON. Living in Philadelphia.

Summary.

MARRIAGES.

RITCHIE, to Miss Caroline Stuart Poole, of Milton, Mass.,
May 24, '66 :—(died Jan. '67.)

POWERS, to Miss Helen Wiley Hunt, of San Francisco, Cal.,
Jan. 14, '67.

DABNEY, to Miss Clara Bigelow, of Boston, April, '67.

WALKER, to Miss Sarah C. Bush, of New London, Conn., April 24, '67.

FARRAR, to Miss Laura Wilson, of Chicago, Ill., Apr. 29, '67.

HOLBROOK, to Miss Elizabeth P. Bolles, of Newark, N. J.,
May 22, '67.

SANBORN, to Miss Maria ——— ;—(died Feb. 21, '68.)

JOHNSON, to Miss Terrie Shively, of Marion, Ind., Dec. '67.

MUMFORD, to Miss Saidie Dana, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec.
10, '67.

HALLOWELL, to Miss Sarah Wharton Haydock, of N. Y.
City, Jan. 27, '68.

GIFFEN, to ———.

GOULD, E. P., to Miss Jenny M. Stone, of Cambridge, Mass.,
Sept. 1, '68.

BIXBY, to Miss Emma Linder, of Newton Corner, Mass.,
Oct. 21, '68.

COOPER, to Miss Mary E. Cutter, of Cambridge, Mass., Dec.
24, '68 :—(died Dec. 5, '69.)

STONE, R., to Miss Fanny Boott Newell, of Cambridge,
Mass., Dec. 30, '68 ;—(died July 8, '70.)

BULLARD, to Miss Charlotte Haskell, of New Bedford, Mass., — '69.

GAGE, to Miss Elena Boutwell, of Nashua, N. H., March, '69.

FISKE, to Miss Ellen Maria Ware, of Grantville, Mass., June
1, '69 ;—(died Jan. 17, '71.)

HALE, to Miss Katharine Davenport Wood, of Newbury-port, Mass., Aug. 18, '69.

COWDREY, to Miss Mary G. Hall, of Baltimore, Nov. 17, '70.

BURROUGHS, to —.

PEABODY, to Miss Margaret A. Goddard, of Zanesville, Ohio,
Nov. 7, '66.

TAYLOR, to Miss Jessie P. Emerson, of Nashua, N. H., July 8, '68.

DAVENPORT, to Miss Ellen Campbell, of Hopkinsville, Ky.,
Sept. 29, '68.

JEWETT, to Mrs. Davis, of Burlington, Vt., Sept. 21, '70.

HOUGHTON, to Miss Lilian Braine, — '71.

DEATHS.

CROWNINSHIED, July 3, '67.

RAND, April 28, '69.

SALTER, April 7, '70.

SNOW, Jan. 11, '71.

LAMB, Sept. 2, '71.

SWEET, Aug. —, '69.

HAMILTON, Nov. 5, '69.

BURROUGHS, Jan. 22, '70.

BIRTHS.

ATKINSON, —(a son,) Feb. '66.

BULLARD, Sarah S., May 20, '66.

STONE, Ethel, (second daughter,) — '66;—(died Dec. '70.)

HARDY, Susan White, Oct. 2, '66.

GILBERT, Daniel Stebbins, Feb. 20, '67.

SNOW, Elizabeth Eliot, April 22, '67.

GARRISON, Lloyd McKim, May 4, '67.

STETSON, Lillian M., Nov. 12, '67.

ATKINSON, ——— (a daughter,) Nov. 24, '67.

BOLTON, ——— (second child,) ———.

DUNCKLEE, Alice Josephine, March 5, '68;—(died Jan. 27, '70.)

DABNEY, Frederick, May 5, '68.

WALKER, Alice Putnam, May 25, '68.

STONE, ——— (third daughter), ——— '68.

MUMFORD, Annie Isabelle, Sept. 30, '68.

HOLBROOK, Eunice Thompson, Oct. 12, '68.

HARDY, Eleanor, July 22, '69.

HOPKINSON, ——— (a son,) July 27, '69.

GOULD, Herbert Shelton, Aug. 21, '69.

GARRISON, Philip McKim, Sept. 28, '69.

COOPER, Eva Agnes, Dec. 2, '69.

GILBERT, Amelia Gertrude, Dec. 26, '69;—(died Aug. 17, '70.)

MUMFORD, George Dana, May 9, '70.

DUNCKLEE, Charles Brown, June 29, '70.

BIXBY, ——— (a son), ——— '70.

HALE, Katharine Wood, Aug. 22, '70.

ATKINSON, ——— (a son,) Dec. 7, '70.

FISKE, Ellen Maria, Jan. 14, '71.

JOHNSON, Blanche, Feb. 19, '71.

HOPKINSON, Fanny Newell, March 25, '71.

BURROUGHS, ——— (two children.)

HAMILTON, ——— (a son,) — '65.

TAYLOR, Charles Edward, June 18, '69.

TAYLOR, Harvey Emerson, Jan. 17, '71.

Appendix.

* CHARLES DUNCAN LAMB.

The unwelcome news of Lamb's death came when the printing of this Report was so far advanced that an obituary notice could not be prepared and inserted under his name in the body of the pamphlet. I therefore append here a brief tribute to his memory.

His purpose at the time of graduation was to pursue a business life, and it will doubtless be remembered that for two years he carried out that purpose, being in the employ of F. A. Eliot & Co., of Phila. But during this time he was twice called into the field to repel raids into Penn., and at length he felt that he must wholly drop the pen of the accountant, and take up the sword till peace should be conquered. In August '63, he was commissioned 2nd Lieut., 2nd Mass. Heavy Artillery; and was stationed for a long time near Norfolk. He was engaged in the battle at Petersburg, Va., on the occasion of the explosion of the mine; and soon after received an appointment on the staff of the 1st Div. of the 9th Corps; but at the battle of the Weldon R. R., which occurred within a few days,—(Aug. 19, '64.)—he was so seriously wounded that he was obliged to seek a discharge from the service. After his recovery "he undertook the work of a merchandise broker, but that employment was too exciting, and not at all suited to his wounded face;" so that he soon relinquished it. Being fond of sketching and painting, he then turned his attention to these and other studies which would fit him for the profession of an architect; and for the last years of his life was thus engaged, part of the time at least as a student in the Institute of Technology in Boston. The immediate cause of his death was "Bright's disease," from which he suffered for a long time, though it did not assume a very severe form till within three months of his decease. He made no mention of it to any one except his physician, till near the close of his life. How little did his acquaintances realize, as they marked his laconic speech, and wondered at his habitual taciturnity, what reason he had for silence, in that every word cost him a painful effort, and for long months he knew himself to be under the shadow of approaching death!

Let me add here the words of a sympathizing friend:—

"Still another Classmate has solved the next step in immortality.

Charles Duncan Lamb died on the second day of September, 1871, aged thirty years and three months.

We remember him in College days as reticent to the many, free spoken to a few, true to all. Retiring in disposition, too sensitive perhaps, and yet entirely resolute in action, and not uncertain in opinion, his influence was quiet, effective and good.

Naturally, and as a matter of course, we find our Classmate offering his life, if need be, to suppress the Slaveholders' Rebellion. And to that Rebellion another victim is now given.

His father writes: 'We have no doubt that the primary cause of his sickness was the dreadful wound he received when in command of a company of the 56th Massachusetts Regiment, at the battle of the Weldon Railroad on the 19th day of August 1864. This wound deprived him of his under jaw and obliged his wearing a substitute of India rubber. Owing to his full beard this defect was not apparent in his looks.'

No doubt the full extent of this dreadful wound not only shocks but surprises most of us. Of course he never told us that! The heroism that shows itself in brilliant action with dramatic effect may well excite our admiration and cause the pen and tongue to glow with enthusiasm, but thy quiet, long enduring, unexpressed agony makes thee intensely heroic, our brother, and moves not so much our pen and words to enthusiasm as our very souls to sympathy. Farewell for a little while!"

N. P. H.

POSTSCRIPT.

DEAR CLASSMATES:

A word further before this Report is sent to the binder.

Although issued later than I promised, it has received as early attention as other engagements would allow; and will, I hope, be read with interest heightened by months of expectation.

Its necrology is painfully long, including fourteen of our own proper number, and seven of their wives, which must give a shade of sadness to its perusal. It can not be but that we have suffered in an exceptional manner. May no subsequent decade make such havoc in our ranks!

Let me request you, as you read, to note errors and important omissions, and, while the matter is fresh in your minds, at once to inform me of them.

In reference to the Class Dinner proposed for last Commencement,—as there appeared in the answers to my circular no hope of a general attendance of those living at a distance from Boston, it was not deemed advisable to incur the expense. If the custom of having a Class Dinner once in three years is continued, the next will occur on the evening before next Commencement.

According to the vote of the Class I have asked Mumford's assistance in the investment and management of the Class Fund. Responses to the last appeal have encouraged the belief that the $1100. asked for will yet be raised. Since April '71 I have received contributions amounting to $325. from twenty persons, so that we now have on hand as assets about $1000.; viz.—

Six shares stock, Metropolitan Horse R. R., Boston; par $50.,
market value, say. $75.....	$450.00
One $500. 7 per cent. bond of the Western Union Telegraph
Co., payable Nov. 1, '75. for which we paid.....	480.00
Deposited in Montpelier Savings Bank.....	48.00
Dividends due, and nearly due.....	30.00
Total assets, about.....	$1008.00

It may be well to remind you that the market value, instead of the par value, of stock is represented in this total; and that the amount on hand will soon be lessened by the expense of printing this pamphlet.

Some of those who have sent me money for the Fund this year are persons who also contributed last year; and it still remains true that quite a number of the Class,—and some of those apparently in the easiest circumstances,—have as yet done nothing in connection with this effort

When the whole sum is raised, as it is now so sure to be, I am confident that Classmates who are able to contribute, and have neglected to do so, will look upon their indifference with regret, tinged, it may be, with a little shame.

I make now to these, and to those who have promised but have not fulfilled, a final appeal,—(may it be indeed my last appearance before you as a beggar!) Do not allow this opportunity of doing your share in so good a work to pass unimproved.

It has been my custom to acknowledge promptly the receipt of all remittances intended for this object: therefore, if any one has forwarded money to me, and has heard nothing from it, I hope he will write me about it.

Faithfully Yours,

J. EDWARD WRIGHT.

